Director of Youth & Young Adult Ministry

I hope families will be taking advantage of the new "Sunday School" options that are now available. Thanks to the Faith & Wisdom Committee and their hiring of new Sunday School Director, Creighton Helms, Sunday morning faith education is being rebooted to help meet the needs and interests of today's families. Parents, there is now an "Adult Forum" every Sunday, so you have somewhere to go after dropping off your child. The current series is called, "Faith & Healing," with a guest medical professional every week. There are also opportunities to volunteer within the Sunday School program. It's important to me that we have adult involvement on Sunday mornings, since in most cases, children and youth are dependent on them for transportation.

For our Youth, we are having an ongoing series of talks I call, "Faith Walk." We try to create a safe space to explore and talk about our individual Faith journeys, and how issues, events and circumstances in "the real world" affect or are affected by our beliefs and values. The goal is to give our youth confidence to talk about their faith and reduce anxiety and discomfort related to expressing themselves in spiritual matters. At the same time, we try to find out what the Bible might say, and what the ELCA Lutheran perspective is. Yes, it won't be an easy task - we have enough trouble getting adults to speak openly, right? - but it's a start. Our session is a little shorter - still starting at 9:30am but ending around 10am, since some of us will be involved with running the church service.

Please plan on attending the next JOLT! Sunday on November 5th. It will be a special All Saints Sunday, for sure: Some of our "Glump Grads" will be confirming their faith with special presentations. The Sunday School children will "flip the script" and be the ones to lead Kids' Time (in addition to kicking us off with a rousing rendition of "Oh When The Saints Go Marching In!") We will, of course, have our annual "Roll Call of the Saints," remembering the year's baptisms and deaths. The JOLT! Worship team will be there to help us meditate, pray, worship and praise our good and faithful God.

Mahalo for supporting our youth!

Aloha ke Akua! God is Love!

Keith

On the road with Patty and Max...

During Covid I isolated by sheltering in place. I did not practice any of the social graces, so now I am very rusty (that could also be due to the amount of rain we are having now.) Here are some suggestions for me that also might help you to offer grace to others as we once again mingle with each other.

Ways to show that you care:

1. Notice the people around you.
2. Smile a lot.
3. Learn people's names.
4. Remember birthdays with a note or card.
5. Ask others about themselves and then listen to the answers.
6. Be nice.
7. Be honest.
8. Delight and share in others discoveries.
9. Notice when others are absent.
10. Call them to say, "Hello."

Yip! Max here! I passed my tests with Patty. We can visit again. I am so happy that all that RIDING to that big school (Linfield) is done for a while. I had to stay CLEAN for a whole week! And I had to BEHAVE when people tried to give me TREATS. I like treats but Patty said NO TREATS. But I was a GOOD DOG. So she was confused.

Ministry Celebrations & Thank You Letters

- ☆ Patty MacInnes and dog Max passed their recertification as a therapy team with Paws for Love. A written, workshop, situational testing, & a two hour supervised visit for the team is observed.
- ☆ The rummage sale tables now have wood sign holders. Thanks to Leroy and Neil, signs are sturdy, reusable and look professional!
- ☆ Grateful for Charlene and Dave McColly for the delicious lunches they provided every day during rummage sale setup. Such a blessing to have a meal for all the volunteers!
- ☆ The gym floors were clean before and after the sale. Tables were found, loaned and set up, thanks to Andrew & Bill.
- ☆ Thank you to Dan Zinkand for the donation of the antique desk that is now in use in the quilting room.

Know a reason to celebrate, call 503-873-8656 to report 'who' and 'what'.

***

Our Church rummage sale worker "bees" were there early morning to late afternoons. Fantastic energy was felt as they unloaded boxes, bags and all was done with laughter, smiles and coffee. Thankful for your labors of love to create $ for our mission outreach. The sunny-beautiful days were a blessing to the "crew" and our visitors!

Growing Hope Globally

Growing Hope Globally November mini-auction. And the December 2nd 'It's Christmas Again' sale.

Putting Growing Hope Globally back in the spotlight!

As we wrap up harvest season here in the valley, it is again time to turn some attention to our World Hunger collaboration with Growing Hope Globally. The 'harvest' activities for this fall include an October Mini-Auction, a November Mini-Auction, and on the first Saturday of December, It's Christmas Again Bazaar.

The October Mini-Auction will conclude at noon on Sunday, October 29th. Auction items include a pub crawl, four nights in Pacific City, pumpkin bars, jams, a wine basket, Snoopy artwork, an antique quilt, an antique cabinet, and a limited number of exclusive 'Pac 2' t-shirts. For most items there is an opportunity to bid or for the right price, 'buy it now!'

The November Mini-Auction will begin on November 5th and run until noon on November 26th.

December 2nd will be the It's Christmas Again Bazaar. Not only will Christmas gifts and decorations be for sale, there will also be a Santa's Secret Workshop area for kids to do their Christmas shopping. Beyond that, the vision is to have both Lefse and Tamales for sale as well.

Donations for the November or spring Mini-Auctions or for the Christmas Bazaar or for Santa's Secret Workshop are still being accepted. If you have questions or gifts to share, let us know!

Archive Committee News

The Archive Committee seeks your help. Do you or do you know someone familiar with building blueprints? We have a lot of them since we have four church buildings in our history. If you have a couple hours you can spare, we would be so grateful. Will bring treats.

Please contact us and we will set up a time that will work for you.

On November 10 our church will be 131 years old. The Archive Committee will be hosting and Anniversary Party on November 12 during coffee hour. Please come learn about our beginning - the Charter Members, the first church building, and our Norwegian roots.

Hoping some of you will offer to bring Norwegian treats - Lefsa, Krumkake, Kransekake, Sandbakkels, Fattigman, Goro, Almond cake, Spritz cookies or another favorite.

Bring a centerpiece for one of the round tables.

Bring something for the display tables - pictures, books, tools clothing, Rosemaling, Hardanger, woodcarving. We will ask that everything be admired with the eyes and not with the fingers.

Most of the setup for that will be done on Sunday morning so your precious things can come and go with you again on that Sunday.

Hope to hear from you about reading blueprints, bringing treats, bringing a centerpiece, or a display item. Thank you for helping make this a great celebration of our heritage.

Kitchen News: Story of a Dishwasher

As the newsletter deadline approached, I planned to write about how much the Immanuel building was used within our community. Reading the Our Town paper, it seemed that Immanuel was listed as a meeting site on every other page. Sharing our space, and often our kitchen.

Then last week the commercial dishwasher in our kitchen went ‘pop’ and failed to run. Dishes were washed the old fashioned way that day. Not the best solution from a food safety perspective.

Trustee Neil MacInnes happened to walk into the gym at the wrong time and volunteered to take a look at the problem. Additional on-site assistance was provided by Dave Miller. The popping persisted when the machine was turned on and would immediately shut down. A technical manual was downloaded from the internet and a national service phone number was located. We possessed a Model 10 AB made in Kentucky by Jackson Warewashing Systems.

Neil and Courtney spent a couple of hours Thursday on the phone with a variety of service repair-folk and a factory representative in Kentucky. Some didn’t work on this model, some didn’t service the Silverton area, some didn’t work on dishwashers at all.

They persisted and the news was encouraging. The serial number on our Jackson Model 10AB indicated it was made in the 1980’s. This was confirmed by several members who knew that our dishwasher had been salvaged from the last fire, with a decision to keep it rather than replace it in 1995.

And for good reason. Jackson dishwashers are designed to last a lifetime. They are ‘built like a tank’ in the words of a friendly and very knowledgeable service tech from the company.

Operation is achieved due to three motors using relays and switches as opposed to our typical household dishwasher that functions with failure prone computer boards. No computer parts on the Jackson.

Because the Model 10AB is still sold, the three motors are available as replacement parts. Each carries a price at about one to two thousand dollars. This is reassuring because a replacement Jackson Model 10AB now costs about $18,000. to replace. Thank goodness they are built well.

At the time of this writing a repair person has arrived at Immanuel and determined our dear Jackson needs a new main tank heating element. It has been ordered. Hopefully it will arrive and be installed before the first of November. Stay tuned for final results!

In the end it is important to note that the Jackson dishwasher is probably the most durable appliance in the Immanuel certified kitchen. It would also be very expensive to replace.

If you use our kitchen, you may have seen new red signs around the dishwasher reminding people to turn off both the heater and the master switches when washing is completed. Twice in the prior month the heater and master were found left on.

It is very important to turn on the two switches in the proper sequence so that the heater element does not heat with no water in the tank.

Did this have anything to do with the ‘pop’ and failure? Or did our Jackson simply need some parts due to the wear and tear it receives? It certainly has been reliable.

And we hope that it continues to be reliable for a very long time.

And that is this month’s “Story of a Dishwasher”.

The beauty of Autumn is awesome. The rain has caused my flowers to bloom again like it is spring, and the trees dressed in their Autumn colors are just stunning. It's a beautiful picture I wish could last longer.

I have heard it said that when the leaves fall they show us how easy it is to let go. Nice thought, but they fall because they have come to the end of their life cycle, all things living will have that moment. It's not something we choose to do, it's the time that has been chosen for us.

Of course, choosing to let go is not always an easy thing to do. Life gets complicated. But about stuff, this morning I read a new idea of how to let go of stuff. Take one room at a time. Take everything from drawers and closets in that room and put it on the floor in the middle of the room. Then you will quickly decide what to keep and what to let go. Yikes. The floor in what I call my office does not have enough floor space to do a project like that.

Stuff is just stuff, how many times have I heard that said. But my stuff is my stuff and I love my stuff, it brings me joy. Especially the older and classic stuff, when fabric was soft and wonderful cotton, when fashion was really fashion and didn't come with holes and tears, when things had character and craftsmanship. Maybe that's why I love working at our Rummage Sale. Great stuff always shows up there.

On a morning a few days ago, a day with nothing on my calendar to do, I was sitting on the couch in my living room with a cup of coffee in my hand. A sweet Hallmark movie was playing on the TV, and Charlie was sound asleep and pressed up against my left side. The sunlight from the east was pouring through the window and lighting up the room. I watched all those leaves on the trees in my backyard, they seemed so happy and I knew soon they would all be like a big carpet on the ground. It was a moment of pure joy, pure peace.

So I said to the Lord, thank you for this picture of my life. It is so full of the blessings I wish all people could have. Shelter and comfort, joy and stuff that makes them happy, a snuggle and coffee and sunshine and good health.

Grandma Hanson wrote letters to the Lord. She wrote just like she was telling a friend what her thoughts were for the day. She ended with Amen, so I think of them as prayers. I found many tucked away in her books. I may find more and that is a very precious thought.

As we are coming into the seasons with a lot of celebrations, Grateful and Thankful are words we hear more often. Supplies are gathered for those who have less, and we think of those we have not thought of for a while. Kindness shows more often too, especially to those we do not know. Why doesn't that feel good time last all year?

And that gently used stuff you are ready to let go, that will become someone else's treasure. A gift of joy.

So today, my pumpkins are still waiting to get their happy faces, and those characters in the Christmas Closet are letting me know it's time to get out. Oh dear, what's a girl to do? Think I better go tend to my yard.

An article I read this morning was about 15 trees you should not plant in your yard. Sure enough, one of them is the birch tree. I have three in the backyard and three along the driveway. They drop twigs and branches and cattail looking things and lots of pollen. Lucky me, they are also white paper bark birch trees. Bless the Native Americans for finding uses for that bark, but in my yard it looks like paper litter. I wonder why didn't someone write this article 14 years ago before the birch trees were planted.

All in all I do love fall. Soups and lattes, sweaters and sweatshirts, leaves flying by. Yard lights come on earlier so they can shine longer and the darkness is full of sparkle.

Happy Fall, happy letting go, happy feel-good moments everyone.

Mariyn Frosig
